

Young Peacemaker Awards 2025

Categories

Young Community Peacebuilder

Do you have a vision of a future where everyone is treated with understanding and respect? This award recognises a young person or group who has actively worked for equality, justice and inclusion in their local community and beyond. Their work may include raising awareness of and challenging discrimination, fostering understanding and advocating for positive change within their school, youth group, community, and globally. The judges want to see how they've helped make their school, club, or neighbourhood a kinder, more just and welcoming place for everyone.

Entries are welcomed from individuals or organisations; they can be a summary/description of a project with evidence of the work that's been done, or any form of art (painting, sculpture, creative writing, film) on the theme of equality and inclusion.

Young Wellbeing Advocate

This award celebrates the achievements of young people who champion social and emotional skills for wellbeing, helping individuals to cultivate inner peace, an essential starting point for peaceful communities. The judges want to see how they've helped make their school, club, or neighbourhood a kinder and safer space for everyone by helping individuals to develop self-compassion and skills for social and emotional wellbeing.

Entries are welcomed from individuals or organisations; they can be a summary/description of a project with evidence of the work that's been done, or any form of art (painting, sculpture, creative writing, film) on the theme of inner-peace or social and emotional wellbeing.

Young Peacemaker

This award celebrates significant contributions to building peace and understanding at the local, national and international levels. This could involve conflict resolution, tackling bullying, working to address social injustices, promoting intercultural dialogue and international understanding. It could also be about raising awareness of Peacemakers past and present or about flagging up issues that threaten peace and well-being at a local, national or international level.

The judges will be looking for initiatives that demonstrate a commitment to peaceful solutions and positive change within their school, youth group, community, or the wider world!

Young Environmental Champion

Are you nature positive and passionate about protecting our planet? This award celebrates young people who protect nature, take action against climate change, and promote environmental sustainability, leading to more peaceful communities. Have you taken action to protect nature in your school or community? Have you raised awareness of environmental issues or proposed measures to reduce climate change? Your proactive approach and dedication to a greener future could earn you this recognition.

Entries are welcomed from individuals or organisations; they can be a summary/description of a project with evidence of the work that's been done, or any form of art (painting, sculpture, creative writing, film) on the theme of environmental change and peace.

Young Future Generations Champion

This award is for a young person, group or organisation who has been working to make Wales a better place for everyone in the future! As the Future Generations (Wales) Act says, it's about making sure things are good for people now and for those who come after us. Maybe it's about protecting nature, helping connect communities, or promoting the Welsh language. The judges want to see how young people have been inspired by the Future Generations Act to make a real difference in Wales, creating a safe, happy and healthy place for all future generations!
